Radio Interview: The Shroud of Turin – Catholic Review – April 18, 2022 – Audio (28:00) – Interview with Myra Kahn Adams by Christopher Gunty – Here is an excerpt from the online description: “Is the Shroud of Turin the burial cloth of Christ? Millions of people around the world believe the 14-foot linen is authentic, based on the details – including a photo-negative of a man crucified in the same manner described in Scripture and blood stains – because it seems no artist in the Middle Ages could have created it, since the principles of photography were not known for another five centuries. As we celebrate Easter and the Resurrection of Jesus, Catholic Review Editor Christopher Gunty talks with Myra Kahn Adams, a Shroud devotee who helped bring a temporary exhibit about it to the Museum of the Bible in Washington, D.C...”

Shroud of Turin: Suffering and sacrifice point to the victory of Easter by Jeffrey Kloha – The Jerusalem Post – Christian World – April 16, 2022 – Here is an excerpt from the article: “...The ghostly, haunting image of the crucified man on the Shroud has shaped how we depict Jesus still today. This famous linen cloth became part of the historical record in the 14th century, when it was viewed by throngs of pilgrims. It became an object of intense interest and devotion in 1578 when it was brought to Turin, Italy, so that Saint Charles Borromeo could pray before it in thanksgiving for the city of Milan being spared the ravages of the plague. Copies were made of the Shroud and pressed against it, to be displayed and revered in churches and cathedrals around Europe...”

But is the Shroud authentic? Is it actually the burial cloth of Jesus? Does it really contain His image, burned into the shroud when He rose from the dead? What does science say?”

Shroud of Turin Exhibit at Museum of the Bible – Why You Should Visit by Myra Adams – Townhall – February 26, 2022 – Here is an excerpt from the article: “The Museum of the Bible in Washington, D.C., will celebrate its fifth birthday on November 17. During the 2017 opening weekend, my husband and I toured the massive 430,000 square-foot museum. We were impressed by the gargantuan brick exterior, 40-foot tall bronze doors with Biblical inscriptions, and modern interior design. Moreover, there were interactive galleries, thoughtful and inspiring displays, and hundreds of artifacts that embodied the museum’s slogan: “Inviting all people to engage with the transformative power of the Bible.” But we noted one glaring omission: The Shroud of Turin was not referenced or pictured anywhere in this extraordinary museum dedicated to the world’s most influential book...”
