Raymond Bruce and Ian Wilson: "Jesus and the Shroud" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, September 1982)

This is a booklet primarily intended for secondary school religious education. It shows that, whether genuine or the work of an artist, the Shroud is immensely valuable for prompting classroom interest in exactly how Jesus Christ may have gone to His death. The booklet promises to offer some of the best colour photographs so far available of the Shroud and the 1978 testing.

Raymond Bruce is religious education adviser to the Inner London Education Authority.

William Meacham: "The Authentication of the Turin Shroud - an Issue in Archaeological Epistemology", Current Anthropology, date yet to be determined.

Current Anthropology is a journal of considerable international reputation, and its acceptance of a pro-authenticity article on the Shroud is a measure of William Meacham's balanced approach. The author of the article is an American working at the Hong Kong Museum of History, Kowloon, Hong Kong.
